
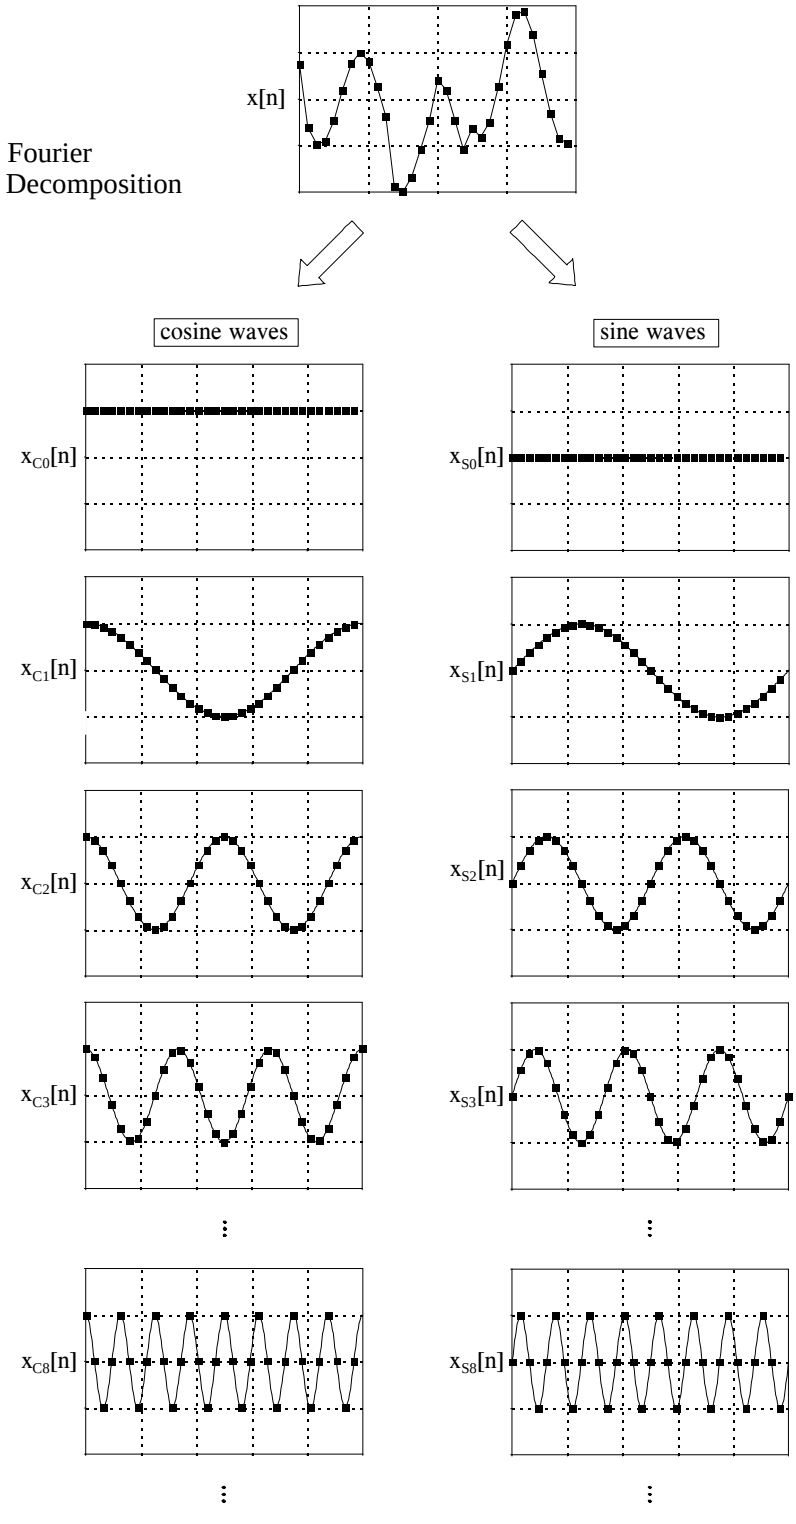

FIGURE 5-16
Illustration of Fourier decomposition. An N point signal is decomposed into N+2 signals, each having N points. Half of these signals are cosine waves, and half are sine waves. The frequencies of the sinusoids are fixed; only the amplitudes can change.