
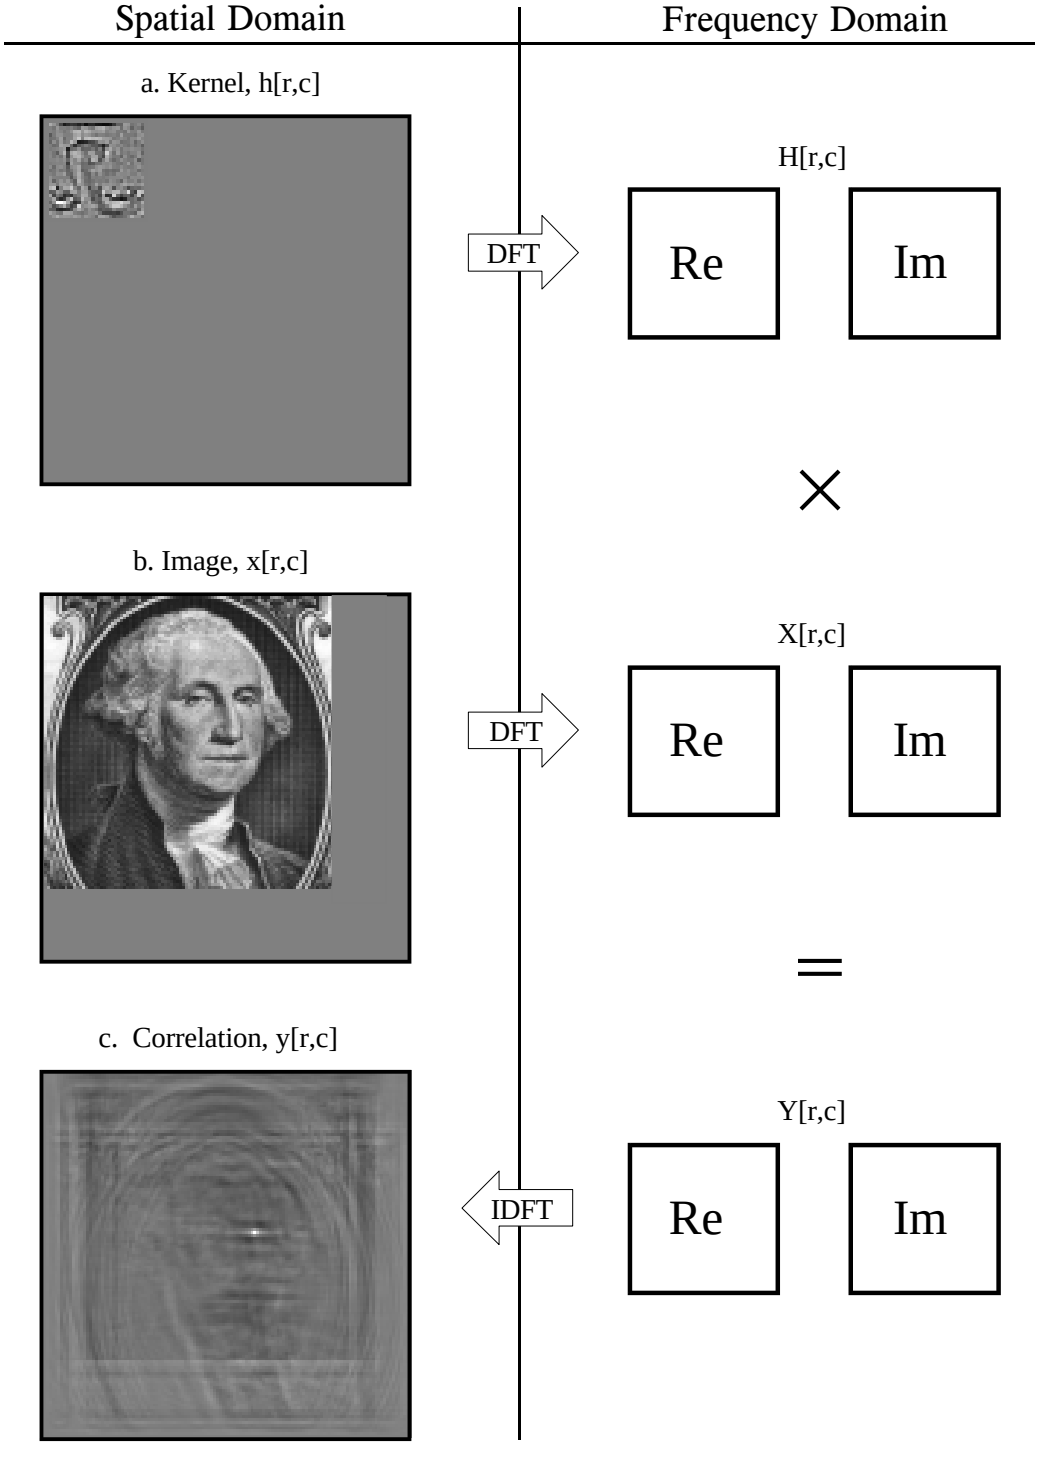

FIGURE 24-13
Flow diagram of FFT image convolution. The images in (a) and (b) are transformed into the frequency domain by using the FFT. These two frequency spectra are multiplied, and the Inverse FFT is used to move back into the spatial domain. In this example, the original images have been chosen and preprocessed to implement correlation through the action of convolution.